

Triad Technology Partners, LLC named #1 IBM Maximo Reseller for North America in 2012

Highly skilled asset management implementation team provides leadership and results

BETHESDA, MD -- February 11, 2013 - Triad Technology Partners, a leading provider of Cloud Solutions for Enterprise IT, today announced that IBM named Triad the #1 IBM Maximo Reseller for North America in 2012. This is the third year in a row that Triad Technology Partners has been named the #1 IBM Maximo Reseller for North America.

IBM Maximo Asset Management software unifies asset life cycle tracking and maintenance management on a single platform. The software system provides government agencies and private sector organizations insight into their enterprise assets, their conditions and work processes, enabling better planning, control, and utilization. Triad Technology Partners works closely with IBM to market and implement the IBM Maximo Asset Management solution into the U.S. government market.

“For the past three years Triad has ranked #1 among our Maximo resellers in the United States. Having such a seasoned Maximo team provides invaluable expertise to our customers and IBM,” said Matt Simmons, IBM channel manager. “Triad possesses a dynamic skill set that affords them the ability to work successfully not only with IBM, but also a multitude of other companies who rely on their capabilities.”

“IBM endorsement of our partnership and the emphasis we place on providing implementation leadership around Maximo is extremely gratifying,” said Tim Hohman, CEO of Triad Technology Partners. “Triad Technology Partners looks forward to continued partnership with IBM in the coming years.”

With a leading professional services team of skilled asset management consultants, Triad provides IBM customers with years of experience implementing IBM Maximo in both the public and private sector, across multiple industries. Additionally, Triad delivers software enhancements specifically designed to increase the effectiveness of each Maximo implementation.
