Tim Hohman and Bridget Dunnington launch
Triad Technology Partners LLC

June 1, 2009 – BETHESDA, MD --Triad Technology Partners today announced its corporate formation. CEO Tim Hohman and President Bridget Dunnington, founders of Triad, believe their expertise and unique approach will differentiate Triad Technology Partners in the Federal Government technology marketplace.

Triad was founded in 2009 by Tim Hohman and Bridget Dunnington as a woman-owned small business technology reseller focused on the Public Sector. Tim and Bridget bring to Triad decades of enterprise software expertise. Whether you are a Federal Agency concerned about software consolidation, or a software company attempting to enter the Federal Government market, Triad's goal is to match innovative technologies to government requirements at the best possible value. Triad's areas of focus are Enterprise Asset Management, IT Service and Asset Management, Virtualization and Data Center Operations.

"Innovation is a key factor to the success of Triad Technology Partners. We plan not only to identify and deliver innovative technologies to the Federal Marketplace, but also to facilitate creative acquisition strategies between Government purchasers and Technology Manufacturers," noted CEO Tim Hohman.
